> tation-A Chinaman Perished in the Flames.

About half-past 7 o'clock on Saturday evening fire was discovered in a twostory wooden building on the corner of King and Kekaulike streets. The latter is an ungraded street laid off after the great fire of 1886, which is built upon for a block or two on each side from King street, and runs parallel with Maunakea street next above it. Before there was time to get an alarm rung, the flames were bursting through the roof. Although the brigade was quick in responding to the alarm, before any appar-Of twenty-nine arrests made on Satur- atus reached the spot the fire had complete possession of the building.

The Volunteer Boys of Mechanic Enthe hydrant at the corner of Hotel and Maunakea streets. Engine No. 2 was this country with La Chung, and were the first to get water on by steam, playduly married Thursday to the expectant | ing two strong streams under 160 pounds pressure. An attempt was made by this company to get water from the cistern gate in King street at the crossing of Maunakea, but, after the ground had been laboriously excavated, the thing had to be abandoned on account of the rusty gate screw wrenching off when the key was turned. Resort was then made to the hydrant close by. Honolulu Engine Company No. 1 got on a stream from a hydrant on Nuuanu street. Hawaii Engine Company No. 4 operated from the hydrant given up to its machine by No. 2 Volunteers. China Engine Company's steamer pumped from the corner of Hotel and Kekaulike streets.

During the few minutes elapsing before the engines got tairly to work the aspect of the fire threatened an extensive conflagration. Wooden buildings stood in every direction from the burning fabric, now enveloped in flames and sending out fiery tongues, with a constant eruption of sparks flying high. Before some of the hose lines got water, indeed, the flames had attacked the buildings adjoining the corner one on both streets. The firemen working on the upper veranda of the next building on Kekaulike street, failing to get water enough even to keep their clothes from catching fire, bundled the hose unceremoniously over the rail to the ground. The essential element shortly after coming in fair volume the hose was lugged up the ladder again and made to do good service. In the meantime Fire Marshal White had broken into the next building on King street and, finding the right place to meet the advancing flames, led one of No. 2's streams to a rear upper window, whence both a flank and rear attack was made with it, having a telling effect almost immediately. The other stream on that side was played from the ground into the heart of the fire, while the rebusiness. The next building on Kekaulike street is damage on the second flat. These results are much less disastrous than was during the first half of the battle. For, besides the long delay in getting the bose filled on the Kekaulike street side, > minutes faint and irregular.

> The totally destroyed building on the corner was owned by Ah Sing, cook on the steamer Kinau, who also owned the building next to it on Kekaulike street. He had the buildings insured for $3,500 in the Sun Fire Office, for which Messrs. Geo. W. Macfarlane & Co. are the agents. The corner division of the burned building was occupied as a fruit store by Ah Wong Kee, who lost the greater part of his stock. On the other side of a partition and hall were four apartments with partitions parallel to King street. In the room furthest back an aged Chinaman lay sick and there was nobody to rescue him. His partially cremated body was found lying on the mat that constituted his bed. There were no tenants in the remaining three rooms, but in one of them a brake was burned. The upper story was cut up into seven apartments five of them occupied by Chinese and Hawaiian tenants. Tuck Lung Chung is owner of the building partly destroyed on King street, and he had it insured for $600 in the Sun Office.

The origin of the fire is not positively known. All evidence is that it started near the middle of the building on the front. Deputy Marshal Hopkins was near the place when the vocal alarm was raised. He went to the building and, not judge the man till they heard both breaking in a shutter and inserting his head, found kerosene oil dropping from above. The Chinese say the fire was caused by the bursting of a lamp in an upstairs room tenanted by natives. From information received by the Deputy Marshal, he had a native named Aukai and his wife arrested. They had occupied one of the rooms only two or three days, and, having the reputation of being a quarrelsome couple, the theory upon which they have been detained is that in a connubial row one of them threw a lighted lamp at the other. A coroner's inquest was held on Sunday by Deputy Marshal Hopkins and a jury consisting of Messrs. H. L. Blanch ard, George Barker, G. Curtis, Joseph Clark, Elvert Olsen and James Gregory, on the death of Lohiau, the aged China man who lost his life in the fire. The witnesses were Kananui Aina, the married daughter, and Mahoe Lohiau, son of the unfortunate man, and Yee Moon, steward of China Engine Company. The 200 00 children's testimony showed that their 1,300 00 dead father had been very old and very 20 00 deaf; he drank very little but did not smoke opium; they lived at the Chinese Theatre and supported their father in his humble quarters; late on Saturday afternoon they each had attended on him; 200 60 he had been ailing from a cough for two or three days; the daughter had hurried $2,476 40 to his rescue when she heard the alarm, $2,476 40 or three days; the daughter had hurried to his rescue when she heard the alarm, but on reaching the building was prevented by the flames from entering. The jury returned a verdict "that Lohiau, a Chinaman, came to his death through suffocation from smoke at the fire on King street on the night of Jan.

Besides the losses above mentioned the Mutual Telephone Company had two stretches of cable destroyed, each of them containing forty copper wires or eighty altogether, as well as a number of detached conductors. Mr. J. W. Pratt, Superintendent, had workmen employed on Sunday restoring the connections. Chinese stores near the fire suffered a good deal from the depredations of thieves who volunteered assistance in removing their stock. Three Chinese and one Portuguese were arrested on Sunday for stealing goods from Sing Loy Shortly after the fire reached its height the electric lights went out. The cable was broken and fell to the

THE WAIALUA ASSAULT.

New Trial Granted-More of the Affidavits.

Mr. Justice Bickerton on Friday mornng rendered his decision on the motion for a new trial in the Waialua assault case. His Honor quoted home and foreign authorities to show that there must be an impartial jury, and finding that there is a doubt of the defendant having had such he granted the motion.

Affidavits were filed from the defendant and his attorneys showing how, after the trial, they came by the information of prejudice on the part of two of the jurors. The information is contained in the following affidavits:

AFFIDAVIT OF J. M. VIVAS. 1, John M. Vivas, of Honolulu, having been duly sworn, do solemnly depose and say: That about ten days or two weeks ago (I fix the date from the fact that it was shortly after the publication of the article in the Bulletin in regard to the Robertson and Hayselden cases), I was in Phillips' milkshake premises on Queen street in Honolulu. Four of us were then sitting together at a table in the back room, viz: I. A. Burgett, J. H. Black, Captain Cluney and myself. The conversation turned on the Bulletin article referred to, and Burgett remarked, "Robertson ought to be in prison for what he has done, instead of running at large." Black remarked in reply, "Yes, and he would be on the reef now if he was not the Attorney-General's father-

Cluney said, "that's convicting a man before trying him; you should wait and hear both sides of the story." Then one of the others (I'm not sure whether it was Black or Burgett), said "that there Hawaiians, was no doubt about his guilt," and that 'his place was on the reef," and other things to the same effect.

Black also repeated words to the effect that the only thing that kept him (Robertson) out of jail, was the improper influence used by reason of his relationship to the Attorney-General.

Cluney denied that assertion of Black's. and there was a considerable talk between both parties; both Black and Surgett exhil ting a bitterly hostiling towards Robertson. I said but little beyond this, viz.: "That I didn't believe political influence had anything to do with it," for I was interpreter to the Supreme Court. I did not want to express a positive opinion. At that time I did not know that either Black or Burgett was on the jury panel.

I was present in Court at Robertson's trial, January 18th, but not until after the trial commenced, and was surprised to see Black and Burgett sitting on the jury. The first opportunity I had thereafter, which was Saturday, January 19th, saved with a burned gable end and some I called on V. V. Ashford, one of Robertson's attorneys, and asked him how it was that those two men sat on the case? to be feared from the bad supply of water He replied that they were examined on their voir dire, and "swore themselves in," and that he knew no reason why they should not sit. I then told him what I have just above stated

APPIDAVIT OF J. C. CLUNEY. I, J. C. Cluney of Honolulu, having een duly sworn, depose and say as fol-

I was present at Phillips' "milkshake on Queen street, Honolulu, I.A. Burgett J. H. Black and John M. Vivas were sitting at the same table with myself when some one of the four commenced talking about the Robertson shooting in-cident and the article in the Bulletin of January 5th, headed "Why So?" (which was supposed to relate to the said case, and the Hayselden conspiracy case) and a copy of which is attached, marked Exhibit A." That during the conversation both said Black and said Burgett made remarks against said Robertson to the effect that he was guilty of the charge and deserved to be "on the reef," and that the only thing that had prevented it was his relationship to the Attorney-General. Burgett distinctly said that said Robertson Cought to be in prison instead of going at large." I said to them they should sides of the story. Black said "there was no doubt of his guilt," and much more to the same effect.

The conversation was chiefly between Black, Burgett and myself; Vivas, however, said that "political influence had nothing to do with the matter." This was said in reply to the assertions of both Black and Burgett to the effect that Robertson would then be "on the reef," stead of at liberty, but for his relationship to the Attorney-General. Kaumakapili Church.

A largely attended meeting of Kaumakapili Church congregation was held in that edifice Wednesday evening. Its purpose was the consideration of a majority decision of the trustees to mortgage the property to the Lunalilo Estate for a loan of $6,000 to be applied to payment of the debt. Nine of trustees signed the mortgage, but the remaining four withheld their names. After an earnest discussion the congregation decided to support the majority in having the mertgage executed. In consequence of this decision the four hesitating trustees would sign the mortgage. The debt amounts to $7,500. Mr. P. C. Jones has offered to endorse a note for $1,000 or the balance after the loan is effected. All the trustees are
